“ *Lord of the gentle night, of comforting darkness,
Guiding light and faithful companion,
Turn your face upon me.*

*Secret was my birth,
Silent were my feet upon your path,
For no one knows the hour of your coming.
The perfume of your arrival is as a cool breeze,
The welcome of your voice, sweet music, from a golden lyre.
You stand between the worlds in the mists of Time,
Before the twin pillars of Life and Death.
Turn your face upon me.*

*Lord of the Crossroads, I hail you.
Guide me in death as in life,
May I walk in truth and balance,
That my heart may be pure and light upon the scale.
Turn your face upon me,
My beloved Lord.*

“ Sorry for the delay, but I want to express my sympathy to all of the Schneider family. I have so many fond memories of our neighborhood and remember all the fun we had as children. Your mom and dad were always a part of that and I hope your good memories will help you all get through this time.

“ Andy and family: I was so sorry to hear about the passing of your mother. As I read her obituary, I saw that your father had passed recently, as well. Losing a parent is the hardest thing I have ever had to endure. I can't imagine the pain of losing them both in such a short time. My heart goes out to all of you. Sincerely, Kathy Ballenger Michel
