“ My deepest condolences go to Brenda and family. Lyle was truly respected, and a great friend. Our jobs pitted us against each other at times, and Lyle could negotiate with the very best. The phrase I was always afraid to hear him say was "you're starting to get my German up!". But I always understood that he was only doing what was best for Kimball, and never was personal in his attacks as he knew I was doing my best for FedEx. After finally getting to an agreement after weeks or months on a contract, Lyle would wink, and with a gleam in his eyes say something like "I beat you pretty good, right? You need a towel to wipe up any of that blood?", then we'd laugh and get some lunch. He was always rightfully proud of his family, his work, and his community. It was a special honor to have known him, and I wish I had more time with him. Lyle, you will be deeply missed my friend.

“ I knew Lyle professionally as a transportation vendor for Kimball Logistics these last 18 years. Lyle was always a friendly, fair, and compassionate person. Lyle had high standards..both personally and professionally and was always a man of his word... When Lyle said it was so, you could bet that it was so...I know when I spent time with him I always came away a better man for the experience, and I am sure it was that way with all those whose lives he touched.. My friend, you will be missed..

To Lyle's family, my deepest condolences for your loss, my thoughts and prayers to you and to all those he touched.

*Brenda,
When we were kids, we couldn't imagine the future bad times we'd face. Now this is one of those...So sorry to hear that you & Lyle lost the battle you were fighting when I met him for the first time, but I've gotten the impression that he was really a special person. Thinking of you & the family..
