“ Jeanette and family, I remember when we used to work together and I was able to spend the night at your home, your mom always made me feel so welcomed. I know she will be missed greatly. Just know you have our sympathy and love. Carol and Joe Walters

“ When I visited grandma last, I congratulated her for making it to 2016. She lit up and reached out to hug me saying "Well, Happy Birthday!" I reminded her that my sister is going to have a baby this year and the family she started just keeps on getting bigger thanks to her. She shook her head and replied, "Yeah, I guess. I'll be sure and do better next time." Too funny!

I best remember her walking thru the woods, cane in one hand and a bucket in the other, picking blackberries...always full of pep and vinegar

You've got that right, John! She was determined to prove she could do anything which is why she struggled in the nursing home when she could no longer walk. I am glad she is finally free! I hope God has lots of work for her in heaven!
