“ Having to say goodbye to the man who's always been by my side, even during the times I was going in the wrong direction you were always there. So now having a memory that's brought me to tears a thousand times since Friday, I know over time, I'll be so happy to know that I was at YOUR side holding your hand as you began your next journey. In the end if I end up being half the man you were, I'll have done a good job. I'll never forget you Pops. Love you always.
